- b) The Registrar and the Head of Learning & Teaching are co-leads on SRUC's DAP project and outlined the basics of the process and timeline. A gap analysis has been done and an action plan has been created to address the identified gaps. The action plan addresses 42 actions which are divided into 6 sub-categories: RDAP, culture, strategic operations, policy and guidance, student experience, and capacity and development.
- c) Keith Bartlett of Advance HE outlined that SRUC was in a good position to achieve DAP in the timeline outlined. He emphasised that DAP was an organisation wide project.
- d) Once the critical self-assessment was submitted in spring 2021, the QAA auditors will visit SRUC and their assessment can take an academic year or more. They will observe board and sub-committee meetings and can also call additional meetings as required. To date the approach of QAA auditors has been to only have one meeting with the Principal at the beginning of the process.

- e) Keith Bartlett led a mock question session with the Board. Questions included “What new opportunities will DAP open for SRUC?”, “What benefit will TDAP bring stakeholders?”, “As you secure TDAP/RDAP/University status what kind of institution do you want SRUC to be and what will its relationship/partnership with UoG and UoE?”, “In what ways do you see Board member’s roles changing with TDAP?”, “Can you provide examples of governance issues the Board has had to work through and resolve?”.

- g) SRUC would be provided with the QAA team in advance of the long assessment process.

Agreed that:

- a) The Board found the mock question session very helpful. In preparation for the actual session it would be important to identify what the Board wanted to say and the messages it would like to convey. Identifying Board members strengths/areas of expertise would be important so the group would know who to pass questions to.

Action: Chair/Principal

- b) The chair should be first to answer the first question in order to get the meeting going and so there is no “dead air” at the start.
- c) The Board would benefit from having a summary of 5-6 benefits of TDAP for SRUC at a strategic level but also with concrete examples for staff. The Director of Digital, Marketing & Communications agreed to do this.

Action: CB

- d) The induction process for incoming non-executives would include a TDAP section.

Action: CP

- c) All measures should be SMART and add up to the sum of SRUC's parts. There currently were gaps in key areas which should be measured/monitored.
- d) The need to have a "golden thread" between individuals' work and the delivery of the vision was necessary.

- c) Tea & Talk will be brought back this year as it is a safe space for students and support staff to chat in a relaxed atmosphere.
- d) In order to get a consistent support structure in place, a Working Group for Mental Health is being put in place. It was noted by SRUCSA that this was being redone every year and it is hoped that the working group will be able to input into a long-term plan and help with continuity of service to students.
- e) SRUCSA wanted to recognise the effort SRUC made to support students and combat digital poverty.
- f) “Winter Extravaganza” is a new concept this year where SRUCSA have teamed up with other students’ associations to run a fun festive themed competition for students. - b) SRUC's CMP aimed to reduce carbon emission by 40% by March 2020 via estates rationalisation, office moves and new builds, and identifying and implementing carbon saving projects. It is clearly linked to our Estates Strategy and vision to decrease energy usage, have modern facilities, and fewer people in offices (i.e. modern ways of working).
- c) The CMP sat within SRUC's wider sustainability strategy and an Energy & Environmental Working Group had been set-up to ensure an SRUC-wide view was taken when reviewing the CMP.
- d) The Board agreed that if SRUC is to be a leader on natural economy we need to be an exemplar in carbon management, for example the use of renewable energy.
